General Info

Mia's youth classes provide fun and challenging hands-on art experiences that are enriched and inspired by works of art in the museum's collection and special exhibitions. Led by experienced art instructors, museum classes offer young people a global view of art history, as well as fascinating insights into artists, techniques, and styles. In the galleries, students spend time learning directly from masterpieces. In the studio, students develop basic art skills, experiment with an array of artistic mediums, and gain confidence through exercises that foster self-expression. Creative problem-solving and art-making activities are integrated into each class. Selected artworks by students are displayed in the Community Commons Gallery in the fall.

Registration

Registration opens Monday, January 29. To register, please call 612.870.6323 or visit us at artsmia.org/youthstudio.

Extended care

The Children's Theatre Company (CTC) is pleased to offer a convenient extended-care option to Mia Studio Program participants. The extended-care option offers both free playtime and organized activities with CTC's education staff. Morning extended care is offered from 8AM until morning classes begin, and afternoon extended care is offered from 3:30 until 5:30PM. Register for extended care by calling 612.874.0400 during regular box-office hours.

Special savings for Whittier and Phillips residents

Whittier or Phillips Neighborhood residents save 50% on all classes.

Full scholarships available

The Mia Youth & Teen Studio Program is pleased to offer full scholarships to families who qualify. Scholarships are awarded on a first-come, first-served basis and are valid for one year. Each youth or teen awarded a scholarship is invited to participate in one class/camp per semester. To begin the scholarship process, email scholarships@artsmia.org or call 612.870.3013.
